

Table of Contents

Departmental Information	ii
Acknowledgements	iv
Table of Contents	v
Abstract	viii
Resume (på dansk)	x
List of Publications	xii
Conference Contributions	xiii
List of Tables, Abbreviations and Acronyms	xiv
1 INTRODUCTION.....	1
1.1 PROBLEM FORMULATION	1
1.2 IDENTIFICATION OF BACKGROUND, OBJECTIVES AND RESEARCH QUESTIONS	3
1.3 STRUCTURE OF THE THESIS	7
1.4 SUMMARY	8
2 BACKGROUND LITERATURE AND EXISTING RESEARCH	9
2.1 FOOTBALL AND WOMEN.....	9
2.1.1 Football as a (sub)culture for women.....	9
2.1.2 The developmental rise of women's football.....	9
2.1.3 Consumption of women's football.....	10
2.1.4 Initiatives for the Feminisation of Football by Governing Institutions	11
2.2 FOOTBALL CONSUMERS AND FANS.....	12
2.2.1 Central definitions of the different typologies of football fans and consumers	12
2.2.2 Football culture and female football consumers	13
2.2.3 Female fans in a men's world (of football)	14
2.3 FOOTBALL, GENDER AND THE ROLE OF THE MASS MEDIA	14
2.3.1 Historical context and changes in the treatment of women in the mass media	14
2.3.2 Women's football in the focus of the mass media.....	15
2.3.3 The influence of the mass media	16
2.4 SUMMARY	17
3 THEORETICAL BACKGROUND, INSPIRATION AND CONDUCT	18
3.1 FOOTBALL AS AN EXISTING SUB-CULTURAL SPACE	18
3.2 SPORTS SOCIALISATION.....	19
3.2.1 Contextual considerations of social constructivism.....	19
3.2.2 Theoretical framework: feminist theory	20
3.2.3 Socialisation into sport	21

3.3	FAN SOCIALISATION	23
3.3.1	Socialisation into fandom and the construction of habitus	23
3.3.2	Socialisation into fandom and the social role system	24
3.3.3	Socialisation into fandom and the socialisation as interaction	25
3.3.4	Socialisation into fandom and the social construction of identities	25
3.3.5	Team identification	27
3.3.6	Collective memory and lieux de mémoire	28
3.4	GENDER, FOOTBALL AND THE CONSTRUCTION OF IDENTITY	29
3.4.1	Gender as social construct	29
3.4.2	Women as (the new) football consumers in a gendered context	30
3.4.3	Women, football and transnational identities	31
3.5	PERSPECTIVES TO CONSIDER	32
3.6	SUMMARY	33
4	METHODS AND ANALYTICAL PROCEDURES	34
4.1	RESEARCH DESIGN	34
4.2	DATA GATHERING – THE INTERVIEW METHOD	34
4.2.1	Interview guideline	35
4.2.2	Sampling strategy and recruitment of respondents	35
4.2.3	Participating respondents	36
4.2.4	Interview procedure	36
4.2.5	Transcription, coding and data analysis procedures	37
4.3	ADDITIONAL DATA GATHERING	39
4.3.1	Documentary analysis	39
4.3.2	Participant observations	40
4.4	SUMMARY	40
5	RESULTS AND FINDINGS – COLLECTION OF PUBLICATIONS	41
5.1	THE FREE PROJECT AND THE FEMINIZATION OF FOOTBALL: THE ROLE OF WOMEN IN THE EUROPEAN FAN COMMUNITY (ARTICLE 1)	42
5.2	THE FEMALE VIKINGS, A WOMEN’S FAN GROUP IN DENMARK: FORMATION AND DEVELOPMENT IN THE CONTEXT OF FOOTBALL AND FAN HISTORIES (ARTICLE 2)	60
5.3	YOU ARE NOT BORN A FAN. YOU BECOME ONE: THE SOCIALIZATION OF FEMALE FOOTBALL FANS IN DENMARK (ARTICLE 3)	80
5.4	FEMALE FANS OF MEN’S FOOTBALL – A CASE STUDY IN DENMARK (ARTICLE 4)	99
5.5	WOMEN’S FOOTBALL IN THE PUBLIC MEDIA: GOOD PRACTICE FROM ENGLAND, GERMANY AND SCANDINAVIA (ARTICLE 5)	124

6	SUMMARY, CONCLUDING REMARKS AND FUTURE PERSPECTIVES.....	136
6.1	SUMMARY	136
6.2	CENTRAL FINDINGS	137
6.2.1	General implications of female football consumers	137
6.2.2	The role of women in the European fan community	138
6.2.3	Emergence, development and activities of a women-only fan group.....	139
6.2.4	Women’s socialisation into fandom – Processes and significant others.....	140
6.2.5	Women’s football and its role in the mass media.....	141
6.3	RESUMÉ.....	142
6.4	IMPLICATIONS FOR RESEARCH ON THE STATE OF WOMEN IN FOOTBALL	143
6.4.1	Implications for future research.....	143
6.4.2	Methodological contributions and implications.....	145
	BIBLIOGRAPHY	147
	APPENDICES A–H.....	167
	DECLARATION.....	182